

I am more than concerned about having our do not call law in New Jersey revamped to allow certain telemarketers to call my home. Currently I have several non-profits calling my home weekly solicitating donations, my mail box is filled daily mostly with direct marketers and my e-mail is loaded with spam. There are enough ways for salepeople to market their products without having to disrupt me at home. Please listen to the people of New Jersey and realize changing this law is a mistake. Thank you
